Mrs. Jenks.

HER ARRIVAL IN NEW ORLEANS-WHAT SHE THINKS OF BUTLER, POTTER, KELLOGG, PACKARD, AND OTHERS.

[New Orleans Democrat, 16th.] It was shortly after 2 o'clock, while the reporters were busy at work before Mr. Stenger's sub-committee at the St. Charles Hotel, that one of them noticed the passage down the hallway of a lady, and that lady looking so much like the now famous Mrs. Jenks that individual left his seat and went in quest of her. Waiting in the little ante-room adjoining the ladies' parlor, there sat the lady herself, as composed as if under the guns of Ben. Butler. After shaking hands with her the reporter commenced: Reporter: So, Mrs. Jenks, you are back again after your journey, I see. Mrs. Jenks: Oh, yes. Not in the least barmed, bowever, by the trip. Reporter: How did you feel while before the committee? Did it perturb you? Mrs. Jenks: Perturbed? No. You know

I always keep a cool head. Fortunately I have that happy quality. Before the committee I was treated by General Bulter much better than I anticipated. He didn't try to bulldoze me in the least. Reporter: How about Mr. Potter? Mrs. Jenks: Oh! he, from what I saw of him, is a perfect gentleman. He acted very nicely. I had imagined him a very different man. Reporter: What is your opinion, Mrs. Jenks, after what you have seen and heard, about all this? Mrs. Jenks: Think about it [laughing] that's hard to say. Now, don't you remember before I left here I asked you if you believed a statesman like Sherman could

You Democrats would have had a harder time than you did in unseating Packard if I had had my way. Do you think I would have sat passively and allowed myself to be driven from my position as he was from the Statehouse by you? No, never! they did. Reporter: The slavery is not unpleasant? Mrs. Jenks: No. it's not that; but to see those who have claimed to be men and leaders act in so cowardly a manner. I believe I'll become a Democrat now,

THEY MADE ME OFFERS of that kind in Washington. I received a number of letters to that effect. I would accept willingly if they would get the members of the Potter committee to sit on the platform. You know I couldn't get up the divine afflatus without they were there. You see, without them I'd feel lost, and there would be no stimulus. I couldn't have anything to elevate me to my subject. than I thought. Mrs. Jenks: Yes; I came back too soon. I now regret that I didn't wait until Kel- night-time, the hen-house of Andrew Smith, logg had given his testimony [smiling]. Mrs. Jenks.: Yes, and they look like his Satanic Majesty, I think. I had some pictures taken by Brady, of New York, that are quite good. However, changing the subject, I learn that Governor Cox will be busy before the committee for some time. When do you think the committee will adjourn to-day? Upon being informed that it might be cometime yet she resumed her seat. Reporter: How were you treated by the members of the press in Washington? Mrs. Jenks : Well, at first I read much of what they wrote, but in a short time I didn't, and therefore it was passed idly by. There is one thing I want to tell you, however. Quite a youth, some reporter, came to see me to interview me, and after blushing a good deal and asking a number of questions-without gaining much knowledge, I assure you—

HE BOWED HIMSELF OUT. I afterward heard he had got quite soft and spoony about me, and the next day wrote to me for my photograph. In order to gratify the little boy I sent it. [Laughing.] The Sun has also become poetical over me, and I receive almost daily a sonnet or poem about myself. It's quite refreshing. I am going now; excuse me. Good day. And she went.

ARREST OF A DESPERADO-DETERMINED RESISTANCE—A COMBINATION OF CHARGES. Yesterday evening about 6 o'clock Richard Leary swore out a warrant before Justice John J. Crutchfield against Dennis O'Connell and Cornelius Murphy, charging them with assault and battery. Sergeant Hall, of the Second district police, accompanied by Policeman Sweeney, started for Byrd Island to event the process. The parties were to execute the process. The parties were found at the store of E. V. Palmer, corner of Byrd and Ninth streets, where Murphy was just about to become engaged in a sec ond difficulty. After hearing the warrant read, the parties submitted peaceably to arrest, and accompanied the officers to the Second station-house.

After arriving at the station-house O'Connell became somewhat boisterous, and Sergeant Hall proceeded to lock him up. Murphy took advantage of his absence, ran down the steps, and down Sixth street towards Grace. Sergeant Hall immediately gave pursuit, and came up with Murphy, in the cutody of Officer Depriest, on Sixth street near Grace. The prisoner made a most powerful and determined resistancea resistance so great as to require the combined efforts of Sergeant Hall, Policemen Depriest, Sweeney, and Smith, and a number of citizens-white and colored-to convey him back to the station-house. After being locked up he continued to shout and act in a most disorderly manner. Justice Crutchfield, who was at the station-house at the time, went to the cell for the purpose of trying to pacify Murphy or to enforce silence, when the latter threw a heavy piece of lead pipe at him. The pipe barely missed Justice Crutchfield. Had it struck him fair in all probability it would have fractured his skull, As soon as Ser-geant Hall was informed of this (all the policemen having returned to duty) he sum moned a number of white and colored men for the purpose of securing Murphy and placing bim in irons. A number of persons of both colors promptly responded. As the posse entered the cell Murphy attempted to use the lead pipe again, but was disarmed by Sergeant Hall and a colored man named Johnson, after which he was ironed and put in chains. This morning he will appear at the Police Court to answer charges of assault and battery, violent resistance to the police and striking and assaulting them, defacing and destroying the city property, and for an assault with intent to kill Justice Crutchfield. The piece of pipe was broken off of the water-sink, and required the exercise of considerable strength. It weighed some five or six pounds, and was wrenched out of place as well as it could have been done with the use of tools. On the way to the station-house Murphy struck all of the officers, and gave Policeman Sweeney a severe kick in the face. O'Connell, after being locked up, was quiet and well behaved. Murphy continued to shout and act in a disorderly manner until late last night. The arrest created great excitement. A large crowd followed the officers to the stationhouse, and Murphy's outcries attracted many curious spectators around that parties are Irishmen. O'Connell is a Club had a pic-nic at the pump-house. destroyed. [Growing excited.] Why, I Manchester, west of the Free bridge. Murphy is a stone-cutter, and resides somewhere on Byrd Island. He is regarded as a desperate character, and is one of the strongest men in Richmond. Both of the parties were strongly under the influence of liquor, and had before their arrest instituted a small-sized reign of terror in the recently quiet precincts of eastern Byrd Island, and their removal hence was a source of extreme gratification to the denizens thereabout.

POLICE COURT, YESTERDAY.-Herman Schmidt, charged with obstructing the sidewalk corner Fifth and Broad streets, was R. L. Barnes, charged with leaving his horse on the streets without holding the reins in his hands, was discharged. J. R. McDowell, charged with running a cart on the streets without proper numbers, was discharged.

E. Young and E. Lohman were up charged with failing to remove their fences, &c., from the line of the alley extending from Baker to Preston and between Third and Fourth streets after having been notified by the City Engineer to do so. On account of the absence of Colonel Cutshaw the case was continued until to-day. Martha Jennings, Archer Smith, and Samuel Dodson, same charge, same disposition.

The following were fined: M. Murphy, for violation of an ordinance by the driver of wagon No. 215 in depositing fish-brine on the streets, thereby causing a nuisance, $1; Edwin Ford, charged with carelessly and recklessly driving his coal-cart on the streets and driving against the wagon of Mrs. Stockman, $10.

Eliza Lewis, charged with the violation of an ordinance by her son George in throwing rocks in the streets on the 22d, Discharged. Andrew Johnson, charged with unlawfully assaulting and beating Hezekiah Johnson, was found guilty of assault and battery and fined $5 and costs.

Emmett Taylor, charged with assaulting and beating Elizabeth Woodson on the 23d. was fined $5.

John Jones (colored), charged with unlawfully and feloniously entering, in the and sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes. Miles Wilson (colored), charged with stealing one pair of pants, of the value of berry, Roanoke; M. K. Estes, Nelson. $5, the property of John Hart, was sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes. A. As for myself, I was well satisfied with the good order and quiet of our city. Respectfully yours, JOHN POE, Jr.

OFFICE CHIEF OF POLICE, RICHMOND, July 1, 1878. 0.100 Captain: Sir,-With this I send blank-books for each man in your district, in which he is, in his own hand-writing, to enter all arrests, violations of ordinance, or any other police business he may attend to. This will be compared with your recordbook each month, and if found correct you will approve it. Thus will the men be required to keep their own police records, and which they must be ready to exhibit at all times when called for by the Mayor or any other member of the Board of Police Commissioners. Respectfully, &c. JOHN POE, Jr., Chief of Police.

OFFICE CHIEF OF POLICE, ? RICHMOND, July 10, 1878. Captain: Sir,-You will instruct your men to study the city ordinances more frequently, for there are some who have never reported a violation of ordinance since their appointment, and in the future their memorandum-book will tell on them, for it is my purpose to send them to the Board twice each year for inspection. Respectfully, &c. JOHN POE, Jr., Chief of Police.

OFFICE CHIEF OF POLICE, ? RICHMOND, July 13, 1878. Captain: Sir,-Justice J. J. White said in open court the other day that the police force must enter all bar-rooms with any door open leading thereto, or that was lighted up on Sunday. This order I shall expect you to carry out Messrs. Redford, Pizzini, and C. O'Brien will sing the amusing "Laughing Trio," by Martini; and Mr. Pizzini the solo for baritone, " The Three Palm Branches,' by Faure.

[For the Dispatch.]

As we are getting into the beautiful state, as far as our Sunday liberties go, that the Puritan saints wished their neighbors to be, why, I have a suggestion to make. I ain't allowed to get my toddy on Sunday out. I take my jug home. I can't get ice. Hot water and hot whiskey makes me sick. Won't the Board of Health order the supply of water cut off on Sunday, and the police boss station a line of his men along the river and creeks with orders to arrest all who drink anything but water? If not there will be a case of spontaneous combustion soon in some poor fellow, like that barrel of whiskey on Second street. Whilst the police are at work let them clean up our streets of obstructions, otherwise called signs, put up generally on the principle that the smaller the store the larger and the more in the way the sign. Look up or down Main street, or the business portion, and see the mass of ugly obstructions as far as the eye can see. Take them all down wherever found, as far as he ordinance allows. This will improve our city, and give our police some more work to do to keep them from feeling the heat. The last suggestion is on general principles for the good of all who have an eye for decent looks; but the first I insist upon for the personal benefit of some very bad sufferers.

MANCHESTER AND VICINITY.

Installation of Officers. - Manchester following officers for the ensuing year: Rev. George C. Vanderslice, H. P.; Alexander Dick, King; W. E. Gary, Scribe; I. C. Wells, Treasurer; D. K. Weisiger, Secre tary; T. W. Crow, C. of H.: S. C. Dyer, P. S.; A. Fitzgerald, R. A. C.; A. J. Simmons, Master of Third Vail; N. A. Eubank, Master of Second Vail; A. C. Gibbs, Master of First Vail; D. K. Weisiger, S. and J.

This installation was postponed from the June meeting on account of the inclement weather. Grand-Lecturer R. H. Duesberry and other distinguished members of the craft are expected to be present, and a night of instruction and entertainment may be looked for.

Stuart Lodge Anniversary .- Stuart Lodge, No. 141, I. O. O. F., will celebrate its seventh anniversary at the old Falls plantation Friday, August 2d. An excelent dinner will be furnished, a fine stringband engaged, and the occasion will exceed all others in interest and enjoyment. Messrs. Jordan, Amos, and others, who have the affair in charge, are determined to make it a grand success.

Hustings Court .- An adjourned term of Judge Clopton's court will be held to-day at 10 o'clock A. M. The criminal cases have all been continued until September, and only civil causes will be considered. There will be no term of the court held in August.

The Congressional Canvass .- It is now expected that all of the congressional candilates will be present at the mass-meeting to be held at the court-house to-morrow night under the call of the City Superintendent. It is hoped that there will be a large tournout of the people to greet the distinguished gentlemen who will be present to give their views on the great questions of the day.

Base-Ball. - The Arlington and Greenhorn clubs are preparing for the final game of their series, when the winner will play the Red Stockings for the city champion ship.

Personal .- Dr. J. T. E. Norton, of Scotts ville, has been in the city this week on attendance at the Hustings Court.
